OVERVIEW

Southpac aims to provide the most comprehensive Aviation SMS training program in the region, as such our SMS offering provides a number of options ranging from a basic introduction to aviation SMS through to this comprehensive 5-day Aviation SMS Course. This course aims to not only provide the vital underpinning knowledge required to understand more advanced SMS concepts but crucially to develop the practical skills required to maintain and lead the system on a day to day basis.

“Southpac enjoys an enviable reputation with industry professionals from all over the world”

This course is a complete SMS package. It includes essential safety fundamentals concepts required for SMS, where SMS has evolved from, why it is required and what each component and element mean. It also discusses ICAO input and National State Safety Program requirements. There is information on the critical need for safety culture and the Human Factors required to effect this. The course will also include how to implement SMS and what is required to make it compliant. There is a combination of theory, case studies and practical exercises to fully optimise the learning experience.

Who Should Attend

Our Aviation SMS course is designed for people in positions ranging from Accountable Manager through to Safety Officer. It is equally applicable for organisations who are still to implement SMS or those that have mature SMS already in place. It is particularly valuable to organisations with established SMS to crosscheck knowledge and compliance, as well as to enhance the integration of SMS into their business.

COURSE DATES

Testimonial

I recently attended the Southpac Aviation Safety Management System course in Melbourne. I would like to thank everyone at Southpac for a fantastic week. The facilitator was brilliant and the course content provided me with much more information about SMS than I expected. I was a little apprehensive going into this course, having not come through the ranks of the aviation industry. By lunch time of day one my concerns were gone. The facilitator has a very inclusive style and knows his stuff. The support material provided for post course assessments and SMS development is brilliant.
